

History of Pharmacy in India and Related Aspects

Volume 2

PHARMACEUTICAL EDUCATION

HARKISHAN SINGH

The Author

Dr Harkishan Singh is a prominent medicinal chemist and a pharmaceutical historian. He writes knowledgeably on pharmaceutical education, the vocation with which he has had a lifelong association. He has worked with the premier institutions like the Banaras Hindu University, Panjab University, and University of Saugar at home, and abroad at the Universities of London, Maryland, and Mississippi. He has been intimately involved in the working of several professional and statutory bodies.

Dr Singh's other areas of history research are the pharmacopœias and formularies, and pharmaceutical journalism. His publication Pharmacopœias and Formularies has been very well received. His standing as a historian has been recognized in his being elected to the Académie Internationale d'Histoire de la Pharmacie.

---

The Book

The Pharmaceutical Education portrays a composite picture of the evolution and present status of the whole gamut of pharmaceutical instructions and related aspects. The treatise dilates upon the historical perspectives of different items and issues pertaining to pharmaceutical education. Profiles of older pharmaceutical education institutions are chronicled. Overall surveys of the changing patterns of the courses of study and the syllabi contents are presented. A careful research has gone into digging out the appropriate evidences in support of the writings on different topics.

---

VALLABH PRAKASHAN
SU-221 Pitam Pura
DELHI 110034

ISBN 81-85731-09-8